Judge Lowe Doing Good Work Against Bootleggers, Drunken Drivers

AMONG those appearing in Judge Lowe's court at this morning's session were two offenders, one being accused of driving an auto while intoxicated and the other of having in his possession thirty-one five-gallon cans of liquor.

Both were found guilty, the one for driving while intoxicated being fined $250 and the other $500.

Judge Lowe should be commended on his giving these two offenders such stiff fines. There is no class of offenders other than murderers whose offenses are any greater.

* * *

THE individual who drives a car while intoxicated, in our mind is no better than the holdup man who arms himself with a gun which he will use when in close quarters.

In fact, a person has a better chance for his life against a holdup man than he has against an intoxicated individual driving an automobile.

As far as the bootlegger is concerned, there is no one who should be more severely condemned. He is the "individual back of the gun," as the saying goes. If it were not for the bootlegger we would have fewer intoxicated persons driving cars and jeopardizing lives.

* * *

IF other judges would follow Judge Lowe's lead and give the limit to these classes of offenders they would be doing a great benefit to humanity in general.

THE club women of Glendale are worrying considerably over the probability of Glendale not having a hotel finished in time for the district convention of women's clubs which is to be held in April of next year.

As there are 172 women's clubs in the five counties comprising the Los Angeles district undoubtedly a large number of visitors will have to be taken care of.

* * *

IF Glendale is not able to furnish accommodations for these guests it will be a calamity. However, we are inclined to believe that the fears of our club women are unnecessary. We recall a statement made to us only a short time ago. To be exact it was given us on September 17th by Mr. Mattison B. Jones, who was spokesman for the Glendalia hotel to be erected on the corner of California and Brand boulevard. In his statement to us Mr. Jones said that actual construction on the hotel would start this year.

* * *

WHILE the hotel might not be entirely finished by the time set for the convention the owners will probably recognize their city's need and provide enough finished rooms to take care of this convention, which will be the largest one ever assembled here.

We are acquainted with the personnel of the promoters of the Glendalia hotel and we are confident that the interest of their home city will be well taken care of by them and that everything humanly possible will be done by them to have the hotel in shape to house these visitors.

BIG TRUCKLEFT ON STREET UNLIGHTED

Motorists driving along East Wilson avenue were endangered last night by a large truck that was left standing in the middle of the road without a light. A number of machines, it is understood, came close to a collision with the truck. The matter was reported to the Glendale police by L. A. Thompson, motorman on the Glendale and Montrose Railway, at 11 o'clock last night and the truck was moved by Lieut. Nunn, who has charge of the night patrol in Glendale.

D. A. R. CHAPTER HOLDS STIRRING OPENING MEET

Hears Report From the National Convention; Transacts Business

A renewal of patriotic inspiration in the breast of every member present was the effect of the opening meeting of the General Richard Gridley chapter of the D. A. R. held in the parlor of the First Congregational church Wednesday afternoon with about thirty women present and Mrs. C. W. Houston, regent, presiding.

It opened with the new form of salute to the flag led by Mrs. S. C. Leppelman in which each member with her hand upon her heart pledged allegiance "to the flag of the United States."

Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocker, secretary of the chapter, gave an interesting review of the high lights of the national D. A. R. convention in Washington, attended by 2500 delegates, she being the representative of the Glendale chapter. Thirty-one were from California, which was given a place of honor in the front row. The welcoming address was made by the late President W. G. Harding, the presidential party, which included Mrs. Harding, occupying one of the boxes. She also described the pilgrimage made by the convention to Mount Vernon where the retiring president general, Mrs. Minor, placed a wreath upon the grave of Washington.

Miss Ida Myers, state chairman of conservation, gave a history of the drafting of the constitution of the United States and the events which led to the preparation of the instrument which has so strongly linked the United States. In calling upon Miss Myers Mrs. Houston stated that the general program for D. A. R. calls for the special study of the constitution this year and that Miss Myers' talk would be the introduction to this study. In closing Miss Myers quoted the "Citizenship Creed" adopted by the American Bar association.

Mrs. E. W. W. Hayward read the inspiring president's message delivered by Mrs. Minor at the national convention attended by Mrs. Ocker and the spirit of its sane, but lofty patriotism made a deep impression upon all present.

Announcement was made of a reciprocity D. A. R. luncheon to be held at the Biltmore in Los Angeles, October 16 from 3 to 5 p. m., and any members desiring to attend were requested to apply to Mrs. Ocker for reservations which will close October 12.

Greetings from Mrs. Charles Stanley, who has been seriously ill for a year and a half, were presented by the regent to whom Mrs. Stanley had telephoned. A greeting from Mr. J. H. Braly, who is also ill, was likewise transmitted.

Mrs. Houston referred to the Americanization work undertaken by the national organization for which a fund of $65,000 has been raised, and to the project it has recently undertaken of providing school facilities at Ellis Island for detained immigrants and their children who have been very unhappy there under enforced idleness.

Ways and means of increasing the chapter budget to finance the rent it will pay and other extra expenses were discussed and on motion of Mrs. Hayward the chapter voted to increase the annual dues from $3 to $4.

Greetings from Mrs. Rathbun, who has been ill, were delivered by Mrs. Houston together with a fine report of Americanization and philanthropic work done by Mrs. Rathbun and Mrs. Myers as representatives of the chapter in the distribution of clothing and reading matter at the Albion street settlement and maternity cottage in Los Angeles.

Committee appointments were announced by Mrs. Houston as follows:

Reception and hospitality—Mrs. Addison, Mrs. Purrier, Mrs. Drake, Mrs. Peirce.

Flag—Mrs. S. C. Leppelman, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Baird and Mrs. D. A. Pearce.

Patriotic—Mrs. Rathbun, assisted by Mrs. Peart, Mrs. Flower and Mrs. Jencks.

Calling and membership—Mrs. Sayler, assisted by Mrs. McMillan and Mrs. Holbrook.

Reciprocity—Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocker.

At the conclusion of the program tea and wafers were served by Mrs. Thomas Addison, and members exchanged greetings.

POSSESSION OF BOOTLEG COMES HIGH TO COHN

Lieutenant Louis Nunn and Officer Young score again.

Thirty-one five-gallon cans of liquor were captured by these watchdogs of the night force of the Glendale police department, when H. Cohn, 445 North Beaudry avenue, Los Angeles, was taken into custody, the arrest taking place at 5:30 o'clock this morning at the intersection of San Fernando road and Brand.

When Cohn appeared before Judge Lowe at 10:30 o'clock this morning he pleaded guilty and was fined $500, which amount he is now endeavoring to raise. If he cannot produce the "coin" by 4 o'clock this afternoon he will be taken to the county jail, according to the police.

At the time the arrest was made the Glendale officers were making their rounds. Just as the truck containing the cans came along the two officers reached the corner of San Fernando and Brand. Lieutenant Nunn saw the truck and, unfortunately for Cohn, the wind was blowing from the truck toward Louis. That was enough. Louis immediately took up the scent which resulted disastrously for the truck driver.

The truck was stopped. The throwing back of the cover revealed the thirty-one cans. To headquarters went the outfit and Cohn was jailed.

FIRST INSTITUTE FOR CO. TEACHERS NEXT MONDAY

Another holiday is coming to Glendale youngsters next Monday but not to their teachers in the Glendale schools, for it will be the first of the County Institute days for which the office of County Superintendent Keppel will furnish the speakers, the program being in charge of Assistant County Superintendent Upjohn.

All the teachers of the Glendale district, including Glendale, Tujunga, La Crescenta, Monte Vista are required by law to attend and the sessions will be held in the auditorium of the high school at Harvard and Louise.

All principals of schools and teachers of seventh and eighth grades will be invited to have luncheon in the school cafeteria with high school principals and teachers, instructors in the lower grades getting their lunches where fancy dictates.

At the close of the afternoon session all teachers will probably be entertained with tea and cake, which will be served by the social committee of the high school teachers' club in the corridor of the school.

'CHARLIE' FACES FIRING SQUAD AT EARLY DAWN

[By Associated Press]

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 4.—"Charlie," the prize elephant of the Universal Studios here, faced a "firing squad" of one at dawn this morning and paid with his life for his vicious temper. He was 189 years old.

More than a month ago the great pachyderm was condemned to die after a public career in the teak wood swamps of India and the circus and movies of the new world that has been marked by a mean disposition and the maimed forms of various trainers.

Early today the condemned animal was led out to die. All four legs were chained and Harry Lonsdale, keeper of the arsenal at the Universal Studios, fired one shot from a powerful gun into Charlie's body just under the shoulder. He dropped without a sound.

E. B. HOPKINS FINED $250 FOR DRIVING WHILE DRUNK

E. B. Hopkins, 237 Hope street, Los Angeles, who pleaded guilty this morning before Judge Lowe to a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated, was fined $250, which amount he is attempting to raise.

Hopkins was arrested by Motor Officer Collins at 4:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the corner of San Fernando and Doran. Collins was unable to take the man to the station alone, and he called for help. Officer Epps answered the call and together they managed to place him behind the bars of headquarters jail. He pleaded guilty to the charge before Judge Lowe at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

DIRECTORS OF RED CROSS CHAPTER SEE ROSY FUTURE

Reports Read at Meeting, and Work of Year Is Outlined

Members of the board of directors of the Glendale chapter, American Red Cross, who met at the Chamber of Commerce, Wednesday afternoon, were cheered by the bright prospects ahead of the organization for the coming year as well as satisfied with the accomplishments of the past twelve months revealed in reports submitted.

Miss De Gomez, field director of the Pacific division, was present and spoke of junior Red Cross work. She also explained many points in regard to the Community Chest and the way in which it would work out under the harmonious co-operation of all interests.

Mrs. H. E. Bartlett, chairman of the chapter, reported that the Japanese relief fund raised in Glendale totalled $3627.64 or about $200 in excess of the quota allotted, the entire expense of the drive for window cards, paid publicity, telegrams, etc., being but $34.82.

L. T. Rowley, who had represented the chapter at the Boy Scout Roundup, made an excellent report which convinced directors that it was a worthwhile work which they could indorse.

Mrs. Bartlett stated that eleven children had taken and passed the swimming tests during the "swimming week" put on at the city park under the auspices of the chapter.

Announcement was made of a regional conference of the Pacific division to be held in San Bernardino October 12. A fine program has been outlined touching all departments of work and officers expressed the hope that Glendale would be well represented there.

Christmas work was discussed and Mrs. Daugherty was appointed chairman of a committee which will collect jellies and jams for ex-service men in hospitals. Mrs. Lilian Dow was appointed chairman of a committee to receive donations of men's clothing for convalescent ex-soldiers.

Mrs. Edwin Sadler, health nurse, announced that a clinic would be held at the public health department October 15 to examine children, in which the school nurses would assist. This would be given by the city and all mothers would be encouraged to come and bring their children for examination.

Mrs. Bartlett was authorized to appoint a nominating committee which will be announced later.

Directors are very hopeful in regard to the Community Chest and expressed their intention of doing everything possible to help it to function.

ALEX KELS IS INDICTED FOR MURDER TODAY

STOCKTON, Cal., Oct. 4.—Alex Kels, confessed murderer of a stranger near Lodi three weeks ago, was indicted by the San Joaquin county grand jury shortly before noon today. The indictment states that he killed and murdered "one John Doe, true name unknown."

The indictment was returned after three witnesses had testified. They were Dr. James E. Nelson, who performed the autopsy on the charred remains of the man found in the burned haystack; Deputy Sheriff George Eaton and Edwin S. Parker, shorthand reporter for the district attorney's office, who took Kels' confession and statement.

Assistant District Attorney G. M. Woodward stated that the prosecution would probably take no further steps in the matter today, and the district attorney's office shows no disposition to rush the case through too hastily.

Kels, in his cell at the county jail, refused to engage any counsel.

ANNUAL MEETING BAPTIST CHURCH IS ENTHUSIASTIC

Finds Church in Most Flourishing Shape Ever Known

The re-election of all of the officers whose terms expired September 30, the adoption of the budget for the ensuing year and the hearing of the quarterly and annual reports from all of the departments of the church, was the work accomplished at the annual meeting of the members of the First Baptist church of Glendale, Wednesday night.

The reports given by the various departments developed the fact that every section has a surplus in its treasury, and that the church was never in such a flourishing condition as it is at the present time. The budget that was adopted totaled $9500, about $2000 more than the running expenses of the church for the past year. The excess over last year was principally caused by the provision for an assistant pastor, this item of expense amounting to $2100.

The reports showed that almost $8000 was given to mission work during the year that just closed, the total income of the church being about $16,000, exclusive of the building fund, the amount paid into which is, up to this time, about $14,000. The following officers were re-elected.

Trustees: J. R. Maxwell, Ray Bentley, George Bentley and R. E. Olin; deacons, C. B. Elliott, J. R. Detwiller, F. R. Anderson and Geo. McCloud. Additional deacons elected were H. O. Moffatt and George Rowe. Deaconesses, Mrs. Thomas Hoskings and Mrs. M. J. Piercy. Mrs. Etta Marsh and Mrs. Lena Miller were newly elected deaconesses; church clerk, Robert Ladd; benevolent treasurer, A. Van Wormer; church treasurer, W. W. McElroy; fellowship treasurer, A. McDonald; financial secretary, P. L. Hatch; Sunday school superintendent, Roy L. Kent; secretary building fund, Ray Bentley; treasurer building fund, Harry Chase.

JUDGE CHASE HELD COURT HERE AND IN BURBANK

On Tuesday Judge Harry W. Chase of this city held court in Burbank for Judge Crawford, who was ill and who had about fifty speed cases set for hearing. The licenses of three were taken away by Judge Chase for periods of 15 to 30 days on account of reckless driving, and a number of fines were collected.

In his own court this week Judge Chase fined J. B. Robinson of Los Angeles $50. The defendant pleaded guilty to the charge of disorderly conduct and of being intoxicated. In addition to the fine he was given a 25-day suspended jail sentence subject to monthly reports to the judge showing that he is behaving in a proper manner. The case grew out of an auto accident on Michigan boulevard September 29 in which Leo Peigoil swore to the complaint. In the same connection James L. McDowell was arrested and charged with driving an auto while in a state of intoxication. He will have his preliminary hearing October 15.

Four civil cases will come before Judge Chase Friday.

CHURCH NIGHT SUPPER DRAWS LARGE CROWD

More than 200 persons partook of the first church night supper since the summer vacation last evening at Central Christian church. Immediately after the supper there was a devotional service, led by Mrs. C. A. Cole. Then came addresses by the guests of the evening, Dr. and Mrs. George Mosher and Mrs. Royal J. Dye.

Dr. Mosher was a long-time resident of Glendale and was wamly greeted by many old friends. He and his wife, who have both been in the mission field in the Congo region of South Africa, told some of their experiences, detailing some of the joys as well as the drawbacks of their work.

Mrs. Dye, who with her husband started the work in Belgian Congo, 24 years ago, contrasted the conditions then and now. She spoke particularly of the vital needs of the workers in the way of hospitals and other buildings and urged a further consecration of money and effort in this line.

The Missionary society members voted to increase their quota for the coming year. The fact was emphasized that the funds of the missionary societies this year are to be used largely for the providing of needed buildings and other equipment on the foreign fields.

ROTARIANS SING NEW CLUB SONG AT MEETING TODAY

Visits to Burbank and First Baptist Church Planned

Glendale Rotary is a regular club, they say.

Glendale Rotary is a club that's here to stay.

When you look them up and down, they're the finest bunch in town.

Glendale Rotary is a rgeular club, they say.

This is the newest song that was presented to the members of the Glendale Rotary club at its weekly luncheon meeting held today at the Egyptian Village cafe, the words being written to the tune of "Barney Google."

The attendance at today's meeting was exceptionally good and included a number of visitors, among them being J. J. King of Burbank, W. B. Jones, Charles E. Carver, Pat Patterson and E. B. Wyman of Los Angeles. President George B. Karr had charge of the business session at which Secretary Olin reported a 96½ percent attendance for September, with two 100 percent meetings.

Ed Hewitt called the members' attention to the proposed sewer bonds and was given assurance of the hearty support of all.

On next Tuesday the Glendale Rotary club will visit Burbank, this being the first of the inter-city Rotary club meetings and it will be held at the Sunset Canyon Country club. President Karr called the members' attention to the act of the Burbank club in having the meeting day of the Glendale club added to their Rotary sign, which is on San Fernando road.

George Moyse announced a football game to be played at 3:30 o'clock Friday between Glendale and Franklin high. A volley ball team was formed in the club for play on Monday nights.

President Karr announced the appointment of the following reception committee for October: Dan Kelty, chairman; Jim Newton, Bill Howe, Art Hutchinson and T. D. Watson.

Announcement was made that Gil Cowan was confined to his bed on account of sickness.

Sunday, October 21, was named as the day when the club would attend in a body the First Baptist church, of which Ernest Ford is pastor. Five minutes of each meeting in the future will be set aside for a talk covering education in Rotary. Ernest Ford is chairman of this committee and started the ball rolling by calling on President Hatch to give a talk on the origin of Rotary. Arthur Dibbern was called by President Karr to present the Rotary club code of ethics, which is given to each new member. The code is being placed in a gold frame. Members receiving the code were Art Hutchinson and Willis Lusby.

Owen Emery took charge of the meeting at this time and started the program with several unique songs, one being a "Gymnastic Relief" and another the "Mummy Song." Rene Olin, secretary, gave a report on the conference of presidents and secretaries held in the Riverside Mission Inn on September 21 and 22, which was presided over by District Governor Paul Reiger.

GRIM CONVICTS FIERCELY BATTLE BESIEGING FORCE

Machine Gun Fire, Tear Gas Bombs, All of No Avail

[By Associated Press]

EDDYVILLE, Ky., Oct. 4.—This morning's sun swung up over the Lyon county hills to light the scenes for a tense drama.

Hemmed in by the grim gray stone walls of the Kentucky state prison three convicted murderers who yesterday killed two guards and wounded two others, probably fatally, in an attempt to shoot their way to freedom were barricaded in a two-story brick dining room building, the central structure of the prison plant. The convicts apparently were conserving the ammunition for their automatic pistols—and waiting.

Stationed at vantage points about the barricaded building were prison guards, members of Troop "C" from the national guard machine gun company at Hopkinsville and citizen marksmen from the neighboring countryside. Machine guns were trained upon the building.

Prison authorities and national guard officers were expected to initiate today an active attempt to dislodge the besieged convicts, Monte Walters of Louisville, Lawrence Griffith of Mayfield and Harry Ferland, reported to have been committed from Newport.

Tear gas bombs were ordered from the state arsenal and were expected to arrive today. Victims of the convicts' desperate bid for freedom were Hodge Cunningham, shot dead; V. B. Mattingly, who died early today; V. M. Gilbert, whose condition is reported critical, and W. P. Gillihan.

[By Associated Press]

EDDYVILLE, Ky., Oct. 4, 11:20 a. m.—A barrage directed against the state penitentiary dining hall, where three convicts have barricaded themselves since attempting to escape yesterday was laid down by twenty-five national guardsmen and 35 prison guards today.

A machine gun on the third floor of the administration building and one on the chapel, a short distance from the fugitives' fort, swept the improvised fortress until a fusillade of 1600 rounds was exhausted. The three convicts were reported to have fired twelve shots in return.

Guards with shotguns and rifles were also stationed at vantage points. At a signal from Captain Allan Radford, commander of the troops, the barrage began. Under its cover three soldiers advanced behind hastily constructed iron shields and attempted to fill the place with gas. Some of it was released on the lower floor, but it flared back, apparently due to a gust of wind, and almost overcame the leader, who was forced to flee and abandon the attempt. The rifle, machine gun and shotgun fire continued steadily for fifteen minutes. Then firing ceased an an order was megaphoned to the convcits to surrender.

There was no reply.

Plans were then made for a second attempt. Under machine gun, rifle and shotgun fire it was planned to advance upon the building and throw not only gas but explosive bombs into it.

The only effect the machine gun bullets had upon the prison mess hall was to dig crevices in the walls.

"We are going to get them," Warden John M. Shilton said, "if we have to tear the building down to do it."

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Poison liquor took a toll of more than two thousand lives in the United States during the first nine months of 1923.

It was a contributing factor in scores of additional deaths, including motor accidents.

At least ninety per cent of the "bootleg" liquor sold in the average American city is poison to a greater or lesser degree.

The price for buds is the same as that at the opening of the last season, No. 1 grade is one half a cent lower, and No. 2 grade two and a half cents lower. No connection with the No. 2 price, it was stated that this year's crop carries more than twice as many of this grade as last year's pack.

This season's harvest is estimated at 52,000,000 pounds, which is expected to bring the growers from $11,500,000 to $12,500,000.

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 4.—A sheaf of detailed reports on the exact nature and extent of property damage resulting from the wreck of seven destroyers off Honda, Calif., September 8, took the center of the stage at the opening of today's session of the naval court of inquiry investigating the disaster.

Read into the record by Captain Daniel C. Nutting, general superintendent of naval construction on the Pacific Coast, the reports told of conditions as he found them at the scene of the wreck three days after the ships grounded—the positions in which the various destroyers lay; the possibilities of salvage operations; the contour of the coast at that point and the effect it might have on attempts to salvage ships or equipments.

Events of Interest to Glendale and Its People

Mrs. H. C. Vandewater of 634 North Central avenue is looking forward to the arrival tomorrow of her sister, Mrs. William Schlichten from Sacramento.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Olin of 1120 North Central avenue have returned to Glendale from a three months' automobile tour of Northern California, Washington and Oregon.

Mrs. A. H. Olin of 1120 North Central avenue entertained as her guest at luncheon today Miss Myrtis Riddle of the state of Washington, who is spending the winter as the guest of Glendale friends.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Wilson and children of 1216 South Adams street returned to Glendale Monday from a four months' automobile trip that took them to ten states and during which they visited eight capitals. They were delighted to return to California. The Wilson children have been looking forward to seeing snow in the east, but it was not until they returned to California that they had this pleasure. At Meyers, just this side of Lake Tahoe, there was six inches of snow on the summit. Among the points of interest visited by the Wilsons were the Grand Canyon, Nebraska, South Dakota and Des Moines, Iowa.

Mrs. Wilson states that there was no building activity any place with the possible exception of Des Moines.

Mrs. R. E. Olin and Mrs. J. L. Gray of Glendale and Mrs. Charles Munson of Alhambra motored to Anaheim on Tuesday, where they were luncheon guests of Mrs. Earl Smith.

J. H. Orth of 153 South Central avenue has resumed his work at Fairbanks-Morse company in Los Angeles after an absence of three weeks on account of rheumatism.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Toll and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. McCourt were among the Glendale people who attended the grand opening of the new Biltmore hotel in Los Angeles on Tuesday night. There were over 3,000 seated in the seven large dining rooms at dinner.

R. A. Ruffer, Jr., of 463 Vine street, left Glendale Tuesday to attend the world series baseball games at New York city. He expects to be gone about three weeks, during which he will visit Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Chicago, Philadelphia and Washington, D. C.

Mrs. M. P. Moberly of the Mission Rest Home on San Fernando road returned to Glendale yesterday from El Centro, where she was called on account of the illness of her niece, Mrs. R. A. Ellis. Mr. and Mrs. Ellis and baby, who had been guests of Mrs. Ellis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Van Rensselaer of 823 East Windsor road, were returning to El Centro when the machine they were driving collided with an automobile truck that was parked in the highway without a light. They are now in the hospital at El Centro. Mrs. Moberly states that they are out of danger but badly lacerated from broken glass.

Just Chatter

By JOHN J. MULLIGAN

I was dining the other day with Hugh McC. Davenport, the organist at the T. D. & L. theatre, and somehow or other the conversation drifted to theatrical folk and the good fellows they are, and how when any charitable work is required, they come right forward without being pushed, and Mac, who is quite an actor himself, told me of their joys and sorrows and hopes and dreams and of many sad cases where behind the masks of gayety their hearts were breaking. One fellow in particular whom Mac played with in a northern city had a clown specialty and the opening day while making up for the first performance he received a telegram telling of the departure of a loved one. And Mac said that he went right through with his act and laughed and joked and danced and pranced, while behind the grease paint and rouge his eyes were weeping, his heart breaking. And when the curtain fell he staggered to the dressing room and throwing himself upon the couch, broke down and sobbed and sobbed, and sobbed.

And it seemed to me as I listened that all of us, regardless of our occupations or stations in life, wear masks, though some more successfully than others. The rundown, overworked, weary, worried mother, struggling cheerfully to raise her children and smiling all the while; the sickly, discouraged, underpaid father, masking his cares as he plays with his kids on Sunday; the doctor, the lawyer, the merchant, the chief—yes, I guess we all wear masks.

So she wrote to the Laird. I give her letter without the spelling, which was often faulty, although her nightly readings had much improved it:

"My Dear Friend—I am very unhappy. I was sitting at Carrel's, in the Rue des Potirons, and Little Billee came in, and was so shocked and disgusted that he ran away and never came back.

"I saw it all in his face.

"I sat there because M. Carrel asked me to. He has always been very kind to me—M. Carrel—ever since I was a child; and I would do anything to please him, but never that again.

"He was there too.

"I never thought anything about sitting before. I sat first as a child to M. Carrel. Mamma made me, and made me promise not to tell papa, and so I didn't. It soon seemed as natural to sit for people as to run errands for them, or wash and mend their clothes. Papa wouldn't have liked my doing that either, though we wanted the money badly. And so he never knew.

"I have sat for the altogether to several other people besides—M. Gerome, Durien, the two Hennequins, and Emile Baratier; and for the head and hands to lots of people, and for the feet only to Charles Faure, Andre Besson, Mathieu Dumoulin, and Collinet. Nobody else.

"It seemed as natural for me to sit as for a man. Now I see the awful difference.

A new soft brightness came into her eyes.

"And I have done dreadful things besides, as you must know—as all the quartier knows. Baratier and Besson; but not Durien, though people think so. Nobody else, I swear—except old Monsieur Penque at the beginning, who was mamma's friend.

"It makes me almost die of shame and misery to think of it; for that's not like sitting. I knew how wrong it was all along—and there's no excuse for me, none. Though lots of people do as bad, and nobody in the quartier seems to think any the worse of them.

"If you and Taffy and Little Billee cut me, I really think I shall go mad and die. Without your friendship I shouldn't care to live a bit. Dear Sandy, I love your little finger better than any man or woman I ever met; and Taffy's and Little Billee's little fingers too.

"What shall I do? I daren't go out for fear of meeting one of you. Will you come and see me?

"I am never going to sit again, not even for the face and hands. I am going back to be a blanchisseuse de fin with my old friend Angele Boisse, who is getting on very well indeed, in the Rue des Cloitres Ste. Petronille.

"You will come and see me, won't you? I shall be in all day till you do. Or else I will meet you somewhere, if you will tell me where and when; or else I will go and see you in the studio, if you are sure to be alone. Please don't keep me waiting long for an answer.

"You don't know what I'm suffering.

"Your ever-loving, faithful friend,
"TRILBY O'FERRALL."

She sent this letter by hand, and the Laird came in less than ten minutes after she had sent it; and she hugged and kissed and cried over him so that he was almost ready to cry himself; but he burst out laughing instead—which was better and more in his line, and very much more comforting—and talked to her so nicely and kindly and naturally that by the time he left her humble attic in the Rue des Pousse-Cailloux her very aspect, which had quite shocked him when he first saw her, had almost become what it usually was.

The little room under the leads, with its sloping roof and mansard window, was as scrupulously neat and clean as if its tenant had been a holy sister who taught the noble daughters of France at some Convent of the Sacred Heart. There were nasturtiums and mignonette on the outer window-sill, and convolvulus was trained to climb round the window.

As she sat by his side on the narrow white bed, clasping and stroking his painty, turpentiny hand, and kissing it every five minutes, he talked to her like a father—as he told Taffy afterwards—and scolded her for having been so silly as not to send for him directly, or come to the studio. He said how glad he was, how glad they would all be, that she was going to give up sitting for the figure—not, of course, that there was any real harm in it, but it was better not—and especially how happy it would make them to feel she intended to live straight for the future. Little Billee was to remain at Barbizon for a little while; but she must promise to come and dine with Taffy and himself that very day, and cook the dinner; and when he went back to his picture, "Les Noces du Toreador"—saying to her as he left, "a ce soir donc, mille sacres tonnerres de nong de Dew!"—he left the happiest woman in the whole Latin quarter behind him: she had confessed and been forgiven.

And with shame and repentance and confession and forgiveness had come a strange new feeling—that of a dawning self-respect.

Hitherto, for Trilby, self-respect had meant little more than the mere cleanliness of her body, in which she had always reveled; alas! it was one of the conditions of her humble calling. It now meant another kind of cleanliness, and she would luxuriate in it for evermore; and the dreadful past—never to be forgotten by her—should be so lived down as in time, perhaps, to be forgotten by others.

The dinner that evening was a memorable one for Trilby. After she had washed up the knives and forks and plates and dishes, and put them by, she sat and sewed. She wouldn't even smoke her cigarette, it reminded her so of things and scenes she now hated. No more cigarettes for Trilby O'Ferrall.

They all talked of Little Billee. She heard about the way he had been brought up, about his mother and sister, the people he had always lived among. She also heard (and her heart alternately rose and sank as she listened) what his future was likely to be, and how rare his genius was, and how great—if his friends were to be trusted. Fame and fortune would soon be his—such fame and fortune as fell to the lot of very few—unless anything should happen to spoil his promise and mar his prospects in life, and ruin a splendid career; and the rising of the heart was all for him, the sinking for herself. How could she ever hope to be even the friend of such a man? might she ever hope to be his servant—his faithful, humble servant?

Little Billee spent a month at Barbizon, and when he came back it was with such a brown face that his friends hardly knew him; and he brought with him such studies as made his friends "sit up."

The crushing sense of their own hopeless inferiority was lost in wonder at his work, in love and enthusiasm for the workman.

Their Little Billee, so young and tender, so weak of body, so strong of purpose, so warm of heart, so light of hand, so keen and quick and piercing of brain and eye, was their master, to be stuck on a pedestal and looked up to and bowed down to, to be watched and warded and worshipped for evermore.

When Trilby came in from her work at six, and he shook hands with her and said "Hullo, Trilby!" her face turned pale to the lips, her under-lip quivered, and she gazed down at him (for she was among the tallest of her sex) with such a moist, hungry, wide-eyed look of humble craving adoration that the Laird felt his worst fears were realized, and the look Little Billee sent up in return filled the manly bosom of Taffy with an equal apprehension.

Then they all four went and dined together at le pere Trin's, and Trilby went back to her blanchisserie de fin.

Next day Little Billee took his work to show Carrel, and Carrel invited him to come and finish his picture "The Pitcher Goes to the Well" at his own private studio—an unheard-of favor, which the boy accepted with a thrill of proud gratitude and affectionate reverence.

So little was seen for some time of Little Billee at the studio in the Place St. Anatole des Arts, and little of Trilby; a blanchisseuse de fin has not many minutes to spare from her irons. But they often met at dinner. And on Sunday mornings Trilby came to repair the Laird's linen and darn his socks and look after his little comforts, as usual, and spend a happy day. And on Sunday afternoons the studio would be as lively as ever, with the fencing and boxing, the piano-playing and fiddling—all as it used to be.

And week by week the friends noticed a gradual and subtle change in Trilby. She was no longer slangy in French, unless it were now and then by a slip of the tongue, no longer so facetious and droll, and yet she seemed even happier than she had ever seemed before.

Also, she grew thinner, especially in the face, where the bones of her cheeks and jaw began to show themselves, and these bones were constructed on such right principles (as were those of her brow and chin and the bridge of her nose) that the improvement was astonishing, almost inexplicable.

Also, she lost her freckles as the summer waned and she herself went less into the open air. And she let her hair grow, and made of it a small knot at the back of her head, and showed her little flat ears, which were charming, and just in the right place, very far back and rather high; Little Billee could not have placed them better himself. Also, her mouth, always too large, took on a firmer and sweeter outline, and her big British teeth were so white and even that even Frenchmen forgave them their British bigness. And a new soft brightness came into her eyes that no one had ever seen there before. They were stars, just twin gray stars—or rather planets just thrown off by some new sun, for the steady mellow light they gave out was not entirely their own.

Thus pleasantly and smoothly, and without much change or adventure, things went on till Christmastime.

Little Billee seldom spoke of Trilby, or Trilby of him. Work went on every morning at the studio in the Place St. Anatole des Arts, and pictures were begun and finished—little pictures that didn't take long to paint—the Laird's Spanish bull-fighting scenes, in which the bull never appeared, and which he sent to his native Dundee and sold there; Taffy's tragic little dramas of life in the slums of Paris—starvings, drownings—suicides by charcoal and poison—which he sent everywhere, but did not sell.

Little Billee was painting all this time at Carrel's studio—his private one—and seemed preoccupied and happy when they all met at mealtime, and less talkative even than usual.

He had always been the least talkative of the three; more prone to listen, and no doubt to think the more.

In the afternoon people came and went as usual, and boxed and fenced and did gymnastic feats, and felt Taffy's biceps, which by this time equaled Mr. Sandows!

Some of these people were very pleasant and remarkable, and have become famous since then in England, France, America—or have died, or married, and come to grief or glory in other ways. It is the Ballad of the Bouillabaisse all over again!

MUTUAL BENEFIT READING CIRCLE MET YESTERDAY

The regular meeting of the Mutual Benefit Reading Circle held Wednesday in the public library building was called to order by the chairman, Mrs. H. V. Henry. The chairman gave a review on "Bookless Lessons for the Teacher Mother," by Ella Frances Lynch. The review was especially interesting because Mrs. Henry was a fellow student of Miss Lynch in normal school and gave a very interesting account of the author's character and personal traits.

A letter was read from Miss Lombard in which she greeted the circle on its opening work. She commented on the importance of the Glendale circle and said she often spoke of it in her work in the National Bureau of Education. Announcement was made of the first conference of the First District Parent-Teacher association on Thursday, October 25, at the First Baptist Chnrch of Los Angeles.

Roll call was answered with quotations.

The treasurer, Mrs. McLean, reported 128 paid-up members.

WHITEHILL WILL BE STAR ARTIST IN CLUB CONCERT

Baritone of World Wide Reputation; Native of Iowa

When Clarence Whitehill, famous American operatic and concert baritone, appears in Glendale in the opering concert of the Glendale Music club for the 1923-24 season, on Friday evening, October 12, at the Tuesday Afternoon club auditorium, the members of this organization will have an opportunity to hear an artist who has accomplished some notable feats in the music world.

From 1904 to 1909 Mr. Whitehill was the leading baritone at the Cologne opera and during the summer he was starred at Covent Garden, London. At this time he was honored with two appearances at the Munich Festspiel and three at the Paris Grand Opera. He sang the operas in London under the direction of Hans Richter in 1907. At the Metropolitan in New York, where Mr. Whitehill sang for several seasons, he is conceded to be the most magnetic and effective member of the company in which ever Wagnerian drama he sings.

Whitehill comes here with the finest of reputations and his name has long been familiar to all who follow the musical activities of the country. Many of the members of the club have had the pleasure of hearing him at the Metropolitan or the opera in Chicago, and his coming to Glendale will arouse no small interest.

Mr. Whitehill comes here with the Iowa, and first began his musical studies in Chicago; meeting with encouragement he went to New York and later traveled to Paris on the advice of Mme. Melba whose interest in the young American did much to further his success. In Paris he had the distinction of being the first American male singer to secure an engagement at the Opera Comique; this was the result of a decided success achieved in Brussels in 1901, and Mr. Whitehill sang eighteen performances of "Lakme" in the French capital. Immediately upon the close of the season he was secured for an American opera tour under the Garu-Savage direction. An idea of his ability to work is given by the statement that he mastered seventeen roles in four months in order to fill the engagement. His American debut was made at the Metropolitan opera house as Mephistopheles in "Faust" and he established himself in high favor.

It was at the suggestion of Frau Wagner that Whitehill took up the study of Wagner's operas, and his first opportunity to show his ability in this difficult field was at Bayreuth in 1904 singing the role of Wolfram. Again in 1908 and 1909 he was favored with Bayreuth engagements, creating a tremendous success as Amfortas in "Parsifal."

Reserved seats for the season membership in the Glendale Music club are rapidly being made. An unusual opportunity to hear some of the big artists at a small cost is being taken advantage of by a large number of local music lovers. Those desiring to make season's reservations may do so at the Glendale music stores.

General admission at the door for this concert on October 12 will be $1.

ART ASSOCIATION MEETING SUNDAY AT CITY LIBRARY

Glendale's Art association will hold its regular meeting Sunday, October 7 at 4 o'clock in the juvenile room at the city library on Harvard street. Mr. McCloskey, noted artist and official portrait painter of the American Legion, will be the speaker, and will talk on the art of portraiture.

An unusually interesting exhibit of paintings by association members is on display at the library this month and affords an opportunity for Glendalians to get acquainted with the work of local artists. Mrs. Roy Ballagh, president of the organization, declares that the same friendly responsibility that obtains in business, holds good in art. "Come and get acquainted with your own artists," she admonishes. "Help them as you would your own merchants by buying at home. The slogan broadcasted by Mrs. Berry, national federation chairman of art is: 'American and American artists first.' American artists lead the world in portraiture today. Buy at home."

FIRST MEETING OF LITERATURE SECTION T. A. CLUB

Vacation Memories Are Voiced and Future Work Planned

Inspiration gleaned from the wonderful message on "The Spiritual Force of Understanding" given at the opening meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon club by the state president, Mrs. J. C. Urquhart, permeated the informal talks of greeting given at this season's first meeting of the literature section, held Wednesday afternoon in the club tea room with the new curator, Mrs. H. C. Wilcox, presiding.

The meeting opened with words of greeting from Mrs. Wilcox after which Mrs. G. H. Rowe, secretary, read the minutes of a meeting held during the summer months. The following members answered roll call with vacation memories: Mrs. C. J. Higgins, Mrs. J .W. Walton, Mrs. W. H. Verity, Mrs. R. W. Bolton, Mrs. E. W. Gilliland, Mrs. H. S. Garlinghouse, Mrs. V. Rapp, Mrs. Homer Lockwood, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Leavitt, Mrs. C. A. Brandstater, Mrs. Frankie Webb, Mrs. Helen Sawyer, Mrs. R. W. Mottern, Mrs. Dairymple, Mrs. Daniel Campbell, Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, Mrs. H. C. Wilcox and Mrs. G. H. Rowe. There were a number of guests present who later signed up as members of this very interesting section.

It was voted that a letter of remembrance be sent to Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson, member of the section, who is confined to her home as the result of injuries received in an automobile accident recently.

Mrs. Wilcox announced that Mrs. E. Cleophas and Mrs. Frankie Webb were members of a music committee that had been appointed and will supply a music treat of some kind for the various meetings of the literature section.

Mrs. Daniel Campbell, club president, was in attendance and was called on for a few words. In her talk she emphasized the privilege of being a club woman and also of the great power for good of the women's clubs.

Mrs. Gretna Cordary and Mrs. R. A. Puffer, Sr., both pupils of Mrs. Virginia Freeman, furnished a very delightful musical program. Mrs. Cordary was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Pauline Cordary. She gave a group of three numbers, "Will o' the Wisp" (Spross), "The Last Hour" (Kramer) and "The Moon Behind the Cottonwoods" (Cadman). Mrs. Puffer's numbers included "Sundown" (Woodman), "Black Roses" (Sibelius), and "Spring Song of the Robin Woman" from the opera "Shanewis" (Cadman). She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Gertrude Erb.

Mrs. A. H. Montgomery spoke of her appreciation of the harmony of the literature section with the work of the ways and means committee. She announced the rummage sale to be held on October 26, the Hallowe'en dinner and entertainment at the clubhouse the evening of October 30, and also the society circus for November 16 and 17.

Mrs. Garlinghouse, chairman of the program committee, briefly told of the topics for study at the section meetings for the first three months. These will include "Early California," "Great Achievements of Today," "Americanization," "Women," and "Christmas Thoughts."

A most beautiful story of the "Alchemy of Omar" was given by Mrs. Wilcox, in which was exemplified the true spirit of understanding and service. She said "before we understand we must have harmony within ourselves. We should try to live so that we can gain this understanding. We should get something from everyone we meet and every experience we have will fill the crystal vase of understanding with sympathy, which, like the attar of Omar, will open the gates of the city of our desire."

Members of the Women Workers' class of the Central Avenue Methodist church entertained with a farewell surprise party Wednesday night in honor of Mrs. V. Hunter Brink at the parsonage. Rev. Brink has been transferred to the Pico Heights church in Los Angeles and will be leaving soon to resume his duties there.

As a token of the esteem in which Mrs. Brink is held by the members of the class, she was presented with a beautiful serving tray, a hand-painted plate and also a bouquet of flowers. During the evening the celebration of the wedding anniversaries of three of the class members was also observed, Mrs. C. A. Bowen, Mrs. Frahm and Mrs. Charles Rushworth. Each one of these was presented with a bouquet of sweet peas.

There were fifty members of the class and their husbands present. At the close of a pleasant social evening refreshments were served.ing, with cards and refreshments.

ADDITION TO ARTIST CIRCLE OF GLENDALE

Among the latest additions to Glendale's circle of artists of the drama is R. T. Stevenson of Chicago, a very interesting young man who for two years had charge of the Chicago Little Theatre. He was formerly connected with the Chicago School of Sxpression and Dramatic Art and is very much interested in the work of Community Players. Mr. Stevenson, who at present is making his home with his aunt, Mrs. J. L. Nysewander of 211 West Milford street is desirous of getting in touch with those who would be interested in the establishment of a second group of Glendale Community Players, similar to that now under the direction of Mrs. Nanno Woods.

An important business meeting of the Glendale Canadian club will be held at 8 o'clock tonight at the K. P. hall, corner of South Brand boulevard and Park avenue. This will be followed by a social evening, with cards and refreshments.

WHITE SHRINE SOCIAL CLUB IN FIRST MEETING

The first regular meeting of the recently organized White Shrine Social club, of which Mrs. Evelyn Pierce is chairman, was held on Wednesday at Masonic Temple, Glendale. Each member contributed to the luncheon at noon. The remainder of the time was spent in making attractive favors for the White Shrine Halowe'en dance to be held at Masonic Temple on Saturday, October 20. This will be a masquerade party. The grand march will be held at 9 o'clock, after which the guests will unmask and dancing will continue until midnight.

The next regular meeting of the White Shrine Social club will be held the first Wednesday in November. At the meeting of Omar tent No. 9, White Shrine of Jerusalem, to be held Friday night, there will be balloting on applications for membership. On October 18 the officers of Omar tent will exemplify the initiatory work at the meeting of Manetho Shrine No. 1, in Los Angeles.

Many women enjoy cross stitching as a summer pastime, and little white voile dresses for very small girls stamped with an exceedingly good design to be worked in red and blue are well worth the time expended upon them.

LONDON SELLS WOOL

Recent auctions of wool in London resulted in sales amounting to $19,000,000. American purchasers bought only to the extent of $100,000. Doubtless they desired wool of some particular quality, or they would not have been in the market at all. There is an abundance of wool in this country. Often sheep growers are at a loss what to do with it. So far as demand is concerned, the fleeces are not worth removing. Shearing may be accounted for by a desire to render the sheep comfortable through the warm season.

Many farmers keep a band of sheep. They find no profit in it. Their losses in this respect give them one additional ground for complaint. The wool crop, like the potato, apple, wheat or any other crop, cannot be raised save at a loss and the farmer has already lost enough to make him insolvent.

It is notable that the retail buyer of potatoes pays a fancy price, that an apple for lunch costs him 5 cents or even 10 cents: that anything containing wool is held at a price that strikes the customer as exorbitant. Yet the man who produces these and other staples hardly can induce shippers to give him a bid, and shipping on his own account, often finds the total receipts do not cover the freight bill.

Nineteen million dollars' worth is considerable wool. American growers wish that they might encounter so marked a demand.

DIFFICULTY OF DISAPPEARING

For a man who is well known in a community to vanish, leaving no sign is a very difficult matter. There have been instances of success in the endeavor, but they are rare. Occasionally a man has gone utterly from the people and places with which he had been identified, never to be heard of again. In such cases usually there has been no reason for the dropping out, and the matter remains a mystery. The man who desires to efface himself for the purpose of concealing a crime undertakes an extremely precarious task.

Recently the remains of a citizen of this state were supposed to have been found in the ruins of an automobile that had been destroyed by fire. The usual formalities followed, and with the rounding up of turf over the charred bones, the incident might have been considered closed, but it wasn't. An acquaintance of the presumably dead man saw him in another town, physically intact, and much displeased at the encounter. The fact transpired that there had been a matter of $80,000 insurance money. Also a definite plan for the making of a get-away, attended by the semblance of tragic demise.

The missing man probably will not be missing long. He is wanted on a charge of murder. At this writing the law is close on his hurriedly made tracks. The pretense of being dead is easily shattered, particularly if a large profit might have accrued upon success of the scheme. In the course of justice several enterprising persons have had the mischance to be hanged for having tried it.

ENGLAND'S UNEMPLOYED

Hordes of unemployed in England are making riotous demands for more relief. The government has strained its resources in the effort to tide them over to more prosperous days, and waiting for the coming of activity, bringing work and wages has been long and dreary. The people of England are to be pitied; not alone the unemployed, whose condition is desperate, but the so-called well-to-do. The latter are taxed almost beyond the capacity to pay. Many estates have been sold because the owners could not meet the taxes. Most of these estates have been taken by the new millionaires, who have so much money, and obtained it so easily, that taxes do not appal them.

The hard times experienced in England explain in large measure the attitude of the British government towards France. The English know that the French took the only course possible, and took it after having become certain that Germany intended to pay no part of reparations. There was the choice between a course of the utmost rigor, and complete surrender to Germany; the acknowledgment that the latter had been victor in the war. French pride revolted, and French shrewdness saw that such capitulation meant industrial ruin and decadence of national power.

But English trade, by which the English live, has been reduced to a point close to collapse. The desire there is that this trade be restored to normal. The desire is so strong that to its gratification, Great Britain would be glad to acquiesce in French sacrifice of principle; and the French are not in a mood for the sacrifice.

SPIRITUAL DEVELOPMENT

The letter of President Coolidge read before a large gathering in Washington Sunday expressed a common sentiment, often before voiced, and a self evident fact. An excerpt reads as follows:

"Our country is not lacking in material resources, and, though we need more education, it cannot be said to be lacking in intelligence, but certainly it has need of a greater spiritual application of the truths of religion. It is only in that direction that there is hope of solution of our economic and social problems."

The intelligence of the people will be admitted, but its limitations must be recognized. The intelligence reveals to them the path that should be taken, but does not rise to the pitch of inducing them to walk therein. They know the right, and reject it. The nations now at the point of war, hesitating only because of fear, would be in a different mood were they to lay aside the greed that inspires them, and submit themselves to the policy of being fair and honest. They covet their neighbors' goods.

It is possible that the people of the United States are more alive than others to the spiritual side of their existence. Surely they are aware of it, since it is the substance of many a discussion and thesis. Perhaps it is to this quality of mind they owe their position of comparative prosperity. Not unselfish in the full meaning of the term, not wholly guided by conscience, nevertheless they have begun to value spirituality as a potent force, and their hope is for the dawn of a day to be made radiant by a fresh faith and an exalted love for humanity.

CALIFORNIA OIL

There seems to be considerable distress owing to the output of California oil wells. The abundance of the product has a tendency to make gasoline and kindred staples cheap to the consumer. If this is an evil the consumer fails to see the point. He uses much gasoline. It is a large item in his daily expense. If able to cut down the cost to which he is subjected, he may be unreasonable enough to be rather glad of it. The public does not desire that refiners operate at a loss, nor does it have a firm conviction that the refiners are operating at a loss. To have a rate war bringing the price of gasoline down to an unreasonable basis of cheapness, would not be an advantage to anybody.

Oil is not viewed, save by the operators, as something to be regarded as a benefit to these enterprising gentlemen alone. That the consumer should be able to buy gasoline at a reasonable cost is an economic feature of far greater importance than the large profits of produ... and refiners. There are comparatively few producers and refiners, while in this country alone the consumers are counted by the millions. They, too, are entitled to consideration.

If California wells are yielding so much that waste is inevitable, the condition would be regretted, and there would be a natural impulse to correct it. The crux of the complaint, however, does not appear to be the waste, but the circumstance that gasoline at a reasonable rate is being put within the reach of all.

LAZINESS PLUS

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

The citizens of this beloved land are getting too much free service.

At the present rate of increase in personally conducted bureaus, ask-us-and-be-certain offices and divers and sundry devices to save wear and tear on the human brain and conserve the tissues of the human muscle we will soon be as helpless as silk worms and that is about as helpless as living organism can be.

Estella Lawton Lindsey

Inserting an advertisement in a daily paper recently I specified that replies should be in writing only.

"Then you won't get an answer," piped up the blonde beauty on the other side of the counter. "Better give a telephone number and be done with it."

The ad was to notify the public that I had an apartment to let, so I rapped back:

"Anybody who is too lazy to write a note is too lazy to live in my house."

Well, we got one reply and the girl who handles the ads says if we'd given a phone number we'd have had fully 25. Perhaps.

At any rate it is a common thing for people to call me on the phone and ask me to give them the address of somebody whose address is in large type in the city directory, and the street cars are carrying an advertisement featuring a woman asking the grocer to deliver a yeast cake just as if that were something out of the ordinary.

It's my private and personal opinion that unless people are left to do something for themselves they will soon be unable to think, move or even talk. I am convinced that if some lively chap should get out a book of phrases calculated to enable one to ask for anything one may need without the need to formulate his own sentences it would be a mighty short time before somebody else would find it necessary to invent a machine that would enable the rank and file to memorize the formulas by machinery.

We are accustomed to the idea of "predigested food." Our tea is chosen for us by professional tasters, our furniture by experts in interior decoration, our costumes by designers in Paris and our hats by anybody who happens to have enough odds and ends of silk and velvet on hand to make a chapeau.

The librarians select our books and the doctors decide what diseases we had better have.

Talk about modern conveniences—at the present rate we will be so lazy and apathetic that we won't be able to use the simplest of them.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Bill Dailey says he has a new light on the tipping habit. All his life he has been cursing those who weakly give up to it, while weakly giving up himself.

"But the tuppeny lady changed my mind," said Bill.

The Daileys have been travelling in Europe. Like all Americans, they have been overtipping most of the time and undertipping now and then. The tuppeny lady—tuppeny being the British equivalent for four cents American—kept breaking into their party until Bill forbade the banns.

"I'll have no more of her," he told Mrs. Dailey. "She's too cheap."

The tuppeny lady was making her economical way through Europe. She saved at every possible corner, which was right. Otherwise she could not have travelled at all. But many and many a time she did not tip at all. Sometimes, for a service other folks cheerfully gave half a dollar, she bestowed tuppence on the itching hand of servitude.

"It wasn't fair play," said Bill. "We may not like it but tipping is a recognized part of the European system. The servants are often paid little or nothing. Everyone recognizes that their pay is made up in tips. When one refuses to tip one breaks faith. An implied contract is disregarded and at the expense of those who can least afford to lose and are least able to resent the wrong.

It also threw an extra burden on the others, for they usually tipped them more heavily to make up for the tuppeny lady's default.

"I believe in economy," said Bill, "but that old tuppeny girl assessed a part of the cost of travel upon the servant's who got her tickets and handled her baggage and made it possible for her to move at all. She sort of took up a collection for the poor stranger as she went upon her way."

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

JAMES W. FOLEY

If there was a mountain range of gold in this part of the world, gold would have to go out of business as a standard of value.

Because it would have little value.

Indeed, if we had to tunnel through mountains of it to build a railroad or an irrigation ditch, we should wish it did not exist.

* * *

A railroad or an irrigation ditch is important.

Because on provides food and the other transports it.

And food is necessary to the life of the human being.

Gold is not.

* * *

If there were diamonds scattered about as plentifully as gravel or rocks in the mountain, diamonds would lose their value.

Except as some of them might be needed in the trades or arts.

And we should have to clear away great diamond beds to provide a system of drainage perhaps.

* * *

In the end we might use them to make pavements or to mix with cement and erect buildings.

Nobody would wear them.

They would be too common.

So many of them would hurt the eyesight.

* * *

A glut of gold or diamonds would instantly reduce the values men have placed upon them.

The diamond is hard.

It is hard to get.

It is hard to grind and polish.

And hence comes value.

* * *

Gold is hard to get.

Nature has laid it away in small quantities.

In rocky ledges.

In such proportions that the expense of producing it is great.

So it has value.

* * *

The things of life worth while are hard to get.

Success, in its real meaning, is difficult to attain.

So it is to be valued high.

Success means self-denial.

Self control.

Temperance.

Generosity.

Cleanness.

Industry.

Purpose.

Vision.

* * *

A lot more things might be included.

But it is enough to say that success is valued because it is achieved by hard work and constant endeavor.

Health is preserved by the same constant self denial and self control and endeavor.

* * *

The things worth much in life do not come easily.

That piano solo of the master pianist takes ten minutes to play.

But the practice and preparation and understanding and technique may have taken a score of years of unremitting patience and toil and hardship and endeavor.

* * *

The difficulties you surmount will build you.

The easy things you get may weaken and destroy.

The fine gold and sparkling jewel of honesty, fairness, justice, cleanness, industry—these are not too plentiful.

So you should seek them, for they have great value.

Songs of the Poets

Fable—By Ralph Waldo Emerson

The mountain and the squirrel
Had a quarrel,
And the former called the latter "Little Prig;"
Bun replied,
"You are doubtless very big;
But all sorts of things and weather
Must be taken in together,
To make up a year
And a sphere.
And I think it no disgrace
To occupy my place.
If I'm not so large as you,
You are not so small as I,
And not half so spry.

I'll not deny you make
A very pretty squirrel track;
Talents differ; all is well and wisely put;
If I cannot carry forests on my back,
Neither can you crack a nut."

LITERACY VERSUS EDUCATION

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THERE is a conflict always going on in the field of education. There are two schools of thought in educational matters quite as marked as the two contending camps in theological matters.

The fundamental trouble with the reactionary in education is that he confuses the two things, Education and Literacy.

Literacy is the learning of letters, the accumulation of facts, the acquisition of knowledge, the reading of books, the hearing of lectures and the like.

Education is the training of the mind to think.

While Literacy is of use toward Education, it is not Education itself.

Literacy is merely the possession of the Tools of Education.

A man may be immensely literate, have a thousand facts stored in his brain, and yet have no skill to use them.

On the contrary, a man may be very wise and most truly educated, and yet extremely illiterate. It is doubtful that Socrates or Buddha or Abraham Lincoln was in command of any extensive array of information, yet they were amazingly efficient in the use of their minds.

Many Chinese are very literate, yet possess little or no education. They have learned several thousand ideographs, which is tantamount to knowing several thousand puzzles. This in no way equips them for the business of life.

The system of education prevalent in Japan is tainted with the fallacy that the best educated man is the one who is familiar with the greatest number of facts. The student is swamped with a number of subjects. He must have a smattering of everything. The result is he knows nothing very thoroughly.

Everywhere this fallacy of Literacy corrupts the idea of Education.

We are all proud of having read many books, rarely proud of the only thing we should be proud of, the thorough mastering of one subject.

We are like the fool who would imagine himself to be a good farmer because he had purchased all sorts of rakes and hoes, plows and threshing machines and every other kind of agricultural implement, not knowing how to use any of them.

A common illustration of this is the value we put upon the knowledge of a foreign language. We think a man very clever when he speaks several living tongues, and very learned when he understands several dead ones. As a matter of fact he simply owns a lot of tools, and may or may not know how to use them to advantage.

Sophistication is not wisdom. Most of us perk ourselves up because we have seen many plays, read many books, met many people and traveled in many countries. It is amusing to see the airs one gives himself simply because he has seen something.

Many a traveler runs to and from the earth not to see and enjoy but for the pleasure he takes in saying that he has seen.

To be traveled is not to be experienced, necessarily.

The trouble with most schools is that they are swamped with tools. Not enough attention is given to improving the quality of the mind which uses the tools.

Reading may easily become little else than a bad habit. The acquiring of information is pleasing, and like all pleasures needs to be guarded against and controlled.

The mind is strengthened, the life is empowered and the soul is enriched by the degree to which we assimilate knowledge, and not by the extent to which we swallow it.

I have known some very literate, very learned men, some of whom were intolerable bigots, and some of whom were great fools.

(Copyright, 1923, by Dr. Frank Crane)

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

IMPRESS BY IMPOUNDING

[Columbia State]

Suppose an expert rifleman should stand by a roadside and send bullets six inches over the heads of passers-by, and then claim he knew he wouldn't hit anyone; that he had hurt nobody, they were only scared. Any normal jury and judge would land him in a penitentiary or an insane asylum. Yet his plea would have as much logic as the ideas of thousands of people who operate automobiles.

Reckless driving should be stopped, and it can be stopped only by the heavy hand of the law whenever there is recklessness, regardless of whether accidents result from the recklessness. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred the people who are reckless are those having no regard for the rights or feelings of others, and there is only one way of impressing them. These should be impressed before their illegal driving takes toll of life or nerves.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

HENRY JAMES

A Pasadena wife came into court where her husband had been arraigned for offenses markedly displeasing to her, and asked that the prisoner be given the limit. She thought he deserved it and that it would be good for his soul. So the judge, a just and discerning man, named a stiff penalty. Perhaps he would have done this anyhow, but it is satisfactory to believe that the wife had an appreciable influence.

The incident attracts notice because it is so unusual. Far more likely that a wife appear to plead for a worthless husband. If he had beaten her she dissembles her hurts, and enlarges on his points of excellence if any. Then he accompanies her home and beats her again.

The change of attitude is cheering. It is all right to forgive the trespasser sometimes, but it is a good plan to let him take his medicine first.

Rev. Bob Shuler, given much to laudation of the ku klux, complains that he is being shut out of the papers. Perhaps he is. Papers have been known to show such good taste.

Unhappily, however, nothing has yet shut him out of the pulpit.

Forty-seven perished in the Argonaut mine disaster more than a year ago, but until within a few days only forty-six graves had been filled with victims. Then a group of miners came upon the bones of William Fessel, and the list was complete.

The disappearance of Fessel had been a mystery of the great tragedy. At times he was reported to have escaped, and to have been seen in various places. Meanwhile his body lay 3650 feet below the surface.

Time was when the buggy whip was part of the equipment of every stable. It went with the buggy. Often it was ornate, really more for adornment than for use. Occasionally the father of the family took it from the socket to warm the jacket of erring offspring, in which connection it was effective.

During moonlight rides along familiar roads, the habit of wrapping the reins around the whip so as to employ both arms untrammeled was not unknown.

Now the whip becomes a thing of the past. A Pittsburg drummer who has been with the same whip house for seventy years, recently started on his last trip. He is ninety years old and perhaps needs a rest, but he says he is quitting because there is no demand for whips. The flivver did it.

Of course this case is for the courts to decide, or perhaps by this time they have decided it. Here is the case:

One woman sued another for alienation of the affections of the husband of plaintiff. The jury considered the matter and brought in a verdict of $100,000 damages. This really did not represent the harm done by defection of the husband, but stood for the material fact that a lot of perfectly good property had been alienated with him. The damage money was paid over in trust, and while thus held, was applied for by the recreant husband. How would you decide that?

The way that comes most readily to mind would be that of kicking the man down stairs, and then giving the cash to his wife. This would enable her to live in comfort after providing herself with the luxury of divorce.

Coal is dirty stuff anyhow. See what it did to Pittsburg; and people are getting tired of fooling with it.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

I LIKE AUNT MARY

Bob is getting to be a big boy now. He's fifteen and weighs 131½ pounds stripped. He has a good appetite. So good in fact that it is a matter of wonder and not a little comment when the family are gathering at the table.

"May I have another potato, please?" says he.

"Goodness," thrills dainty sister. "Where do you put them all?"

"Got a growing appetite," grins Uncle Bill.

"Eats more than the rest of us put together," says father, half grumbling, half boasting, wholly teasing.

Bob colors up and scowls. "Well, I'm hungry. I don't say anything about what you eat."

"By the way," mother breaks in hastily, "Aunt Mary's coming. I had a letter from her today and she'll be in tomorrow."

"To stay?" inquired Bob suspending knife and fork for the minute.

"Yes. Going to stay for a couple of weeks, I hope."

"Can she sit by me?" asks Bob.

"Why, yes, I suppose so. Why?"

"I like Aunt Mary," and Bob began to eat again with heightened enthusiasm.

Aunt Mary came and was seated beside Bob at table. From that on Bob never had to ask for anything. Aunt Mary kept ahead of his busy knife and fork and spoon. Just as the last piece of potato was disappearing another appeared on his plate as though sent for.

When he had eaten his meat a signal from Aunt Mary brought another piece of just the right crispness and color and dessert doubled itself like magic. And nobody but Bob noticed it, so you can see why he liked Aunt Mary.

The appetite of a growing lad is enormous. He consumes food in a quantity and at a rate that he will never equal again in his life. He needs it. You want him to grow as much as ever he can of course and his appetite helps him to eat enough to make growth. Then why do anything or allow anyone else do anything that will injure his appetite or his digestion and hinder that growth?

Scarcely a growing lad escapes hectoring at the table. He seems to be fair game for all the silly remarks the family can invent. He has much more patience than grown-ups have and certainly far better manners or he would make a scene oftener than he does.

Let him alone and give him a good, full, well-balanced meal with good grace. Let him eat it in peace and so get the good out of it. Then he will say that he likes you. No, not because you fed him meat but because you considered his feelings which are new and very tender.

SPANISH WAR VETS AND AUXILIARY HAVE SOCIAL

Glendale's Camp of Spanish War Veterans and affiliated Auxiliary had a delightful social evening Wednesday night at K. of P. hall where the veterans were entertained with a delicious dinner by the Auxiliary, followed by cards and dancing in which young and old participated. The committee of arrangements responsible for preparation and serving of the dinner included: Mrs. Fred Butler, chairman; Mrs. Elizabeth Hall, Mrs. Martha E. Warren, Mrs. Alberta C. Merrihew and Mrs. Gray. The tables were prettily decorated with asters and cosmos and covers were laid for between 60 and 75, as it was an affair for members of both organizations and their families. There were also guests from Los Angeles and Pasadena.

It proved the occasion for another of these touching reunions of comrades which have marked several gatherings of the camp. This time Comrade Cox of Pasadena discovered Comrade Sweet of Glendale who served in the same company during the Spanish-American war whom he had lost sight of for many years.

Following the dinner brief speeches were made by Dr. William C. Mabry, commander of the camp, and by Mrs. Mary R. Hill, president of the Auxiliary, and visitors were also called upon.

Announcement was made that two weeks hence, or October 17, the innerpost council composed of two delegates from each of the eleven camps in Los Angeles county, will be entertained by the Glendale Camp. It will be a gala night and camp and auxiliary are inviting all Spanish War Veterans and all women eligible to the auxiliary to be present. It is known that there are about 200 in Glendale and vicinity and the hostess organizations hope every one will come out and get acquainted. At least that was the sentiment expressed when the announcement was made.

Following the dinner short business sessions were held by the camp and auxiliary, the organization last named initiating into membership Miss Wilder, a Spanish war nurse. Other candidates will be initiated at the next meeting.

DE MOLAYS WILL LAUD SUCCESS OF "PETTICOAT LANE"

Tonight members of the De Molay chapter will hold their stated meeting in the Masonic temple when, in addition to the regular work of the evening reports of "Petticoat Lane" will be given and its success celebrated.

Paul O. Morgan, Master Councillor Elect, states that the chapter has realized its goal and cleared enough to wipe out the debt for the official robes of the chapter. It is much pleased with the way in which the entertainment went over with the friendly co-operation of friends of the chapter, and the patronage of the public.

Next week officers elect will probably be installed and it is possible the ceremony will be a public one.

Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Charles Guthrie are entertaining the fifty or more members of the cast of "Petticoat Lane" with a party at their beautiful home in the Grand View district. It promises to be one of the most brilliant affairs of the season.

Harwood Bristow Finds Relics by the Sea

Harwood Bristow, who, in company with his wife came to Glendale from Onancock, North Carolina, two or three years ago, stayed a little over a year but in that time he bought and sold the former Marjorie Rambeau home at 125 E. Chestnut and the block on which Pendroy's store now stands, paying $15,000 for the latter and selling it for $20,000. He wanted to stay in Glendale but his wife pined for the old home so he went back with her. With a recent letter to old friends here he encloses a clipping from his local paper telling of the finding by Mr. Bristow, half buried in the sands of the beach, of an old cannon ball, supposed to be a relic of the "battle of the barges" fought in the harbor there in 1782 between small flotillas of American and British sailors.

MEMBERS REALTY BOARD AS GROUPED AROUND TABLES AT ARD EEVEN

Here they are.
Look 'em over.

Every one is a thoroughbred. Every one is the boostingest kind of a thoroughbred.

There is not a fellow among them who does not have the utmost faith in Glendale—who does not believe that this little "wayside burg" is entering upon the greatest era of progress it has ever known.

These folks are realtors.

They are all members of the Glendale Realty Board and the occasion of the getting together is the dinner that was given to this "rowdy bunch" by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Campbell and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Campbell. The time was Wednesday noon and the scene is the promenade before the beautiful Campbell home which nestles in the foothills of northwest Glendale.

As the picture will show, these real estate venders"—which expression doubtless will bring a grunt out of President Cam Thom of the board—have just finished doing their worst to the delicious dinner prepared and served by the Campbells—which means that for the half hour previous there has been an unprecedented disappearance of home-cooked foodstuffs.

"Hatless" Hayward has just finished leading this collection of songsters in the board's convention song, which boosts Glendale and is sung to the tune of "Barney Google." At times during that preliminary rehearsal the attack of the realtors on everything that resembled musical art was terrible—at others it was horrible—the general attempt to do justice to the "Barney Google" classic being miserable. Every realtor was happy in the thought that it was "the other fellow's" fault.

Then, too, just previous to the taking of this picture, Senor Twining, in his quiet, demure manner, led those present in the Glendale yell, that will be inflicted on the coming Sacramento convention. His facial and vocal contortions were beyond description, but he finally succeeded in pulling the realty men out of their shells, the result being that a hurried call was sent by the people in Edendale to the Los Angeles police department.

At the instant the photo was snapped, Dr. Jessie A. Russell was telling 'em how it was going to be done—the convention caravan, and all that, you know. Dr. Jessie has charge of the Glendale delegation that will journey to the northern city, but some of the male members of the coming party say that unless the Dr. learns to play checkers, dominoes and another game or two she will not be able to take part in most of the games the local lot conveyors will enjoy.

That party at the Campbell home was a wonder. The realtors admit it, and that outfit can tell homecooked food before they see it. They all went away happy—everyone a booster for Campbell Heights.

DORAN ST. P.-T. A. HAS BIG MEETING AS YEAR OPENER

Officers of the Doran Street Parent-Teacher association were delighted at the large turnout of members at the first meeting of the year of this association and are looking forward to a very busy season. Preceding the business session the following members of the executive board, assisted by Mrs. McCormick, courtesy chairman, acted as hostesses in receiving the guests and serving refreshments: Mrs. Clark Johnson, president; Mrs. R. P. Hankey, vice president; Mrs. G. O. Piercey, secretary; Mrs. Woodmancy, treasurer; Mrs. Elwood Pomeroy, historian; Mrs. J. M. Fife, auditor.

Mrs. E. B. Moore, president of the Glendale Federation of Parent-Teacher associations, and Richardson D. White, superintendent of city schools, were present and gave a talk on "Cooperation." Committee chairmen were appointed. A complete list of chairmen will be announced at a later date.

It was announced that Miss Tupper's room had been awarded the picture permanently for having had the largest percentage of mothers present at the Doran Street P.-T. A. meetings last year. A committee consisting of Mrs. Florence Wintersgill, Mrs. Elwood Pomeroy and Mrs. G. O. Piercey was appointed to purchase a new picture for the school this year. Each month this will be awarded to the room having the largest percentage of mothers present and at the end of the year the room having had the picture the largest number of times will have it hung on its walls permanently.

The first district conference of P.-T. A. will be held in Los Angeles on October 25 and all are invited to attend. Committee chairmen are especially requested to be present at this meeting.

The next regular session of the Doran Street Parent-Teacher association will be held the first Wednesday in November.

BRUIN VARSITY TO BATTLE FROSH AGAIN SATURDAY

Will Take on Peagreeners In Second Tilt of Season

Playing their second game of the season, the University of California Southern Branch footballers will take on the freshmen of the same institution Saturday in what is expected to be a red hot tilt. The Cubs were slated to meet the La Verne College eleven Saturday, but the schedule has been shifted in such a manner as to allow the varsity and frosh to engage in another battle.

Last week the two teams met on the field of battle, and the varsity nearly went down to defeat at the hands of the peagreeners, but were able to clean up by a 7 to 6 count. Not much in the way of real football was uncorked, as the game was little more than a scrimmage practice. The game this Saturday, however, is expected to show what the Cubs possess in the way of a football team. To date Coach Jimmy Cline has been keeping his squad behind locked gates, so little is known of their prowess.

This much, however, is certain, the Bruins have plenty of individual material, much of it inexperienced. If they can develop sufficient team work to build up a strong machine, then the other Conference teams had better look out for their laurels. The chances are that by the time the Cubs open the Conference season against Whittier, October 27, they will present a mighty strong front. Then there are the frosh. They are showing up in fine order, and promise much for the future of football on the Southern Campus.

Loren Peak, veteran fullback, who was ineligible last year, is fast recovering his punting ability and is showing some real good boots. Cap Haralson has changed from the line to the backfield, and will probably be seen at half this season. Horace Bresee, end of last year, is back after his job and looks like his money. Cecil Hollingsworth is after his old job at tackle. His running mate will probably be Walt Westcott, captain of the Cub eleven. Cecil Hollingsworth and Scott Thursby will be seen at their position as guards. Benny Persons and Laddie Knudson are after the signal barking job, and both seem to be the real stuff. Among the other vets of last season are Bus Jennings, Scotty Sanford, Jeff Brown and Jack Shaw.

YANKEES, GIANTS ARE ABOUT EVEN IN THE OUTFIELD

Hard to Choose Favorites In the Outer Gardens

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 4 (United Press).—Neither the New York Giants nor the Yankees have a particularly brilliant outfield. It would be too much to expect that any major league team could present a combination like that former Boston trio of Hooper, Speaker and Lewis, but the outer defenses that will work in the world's series are not as good as the boundary guardians of the Cincinnati Reds or any better than that owned by several other clubs.

In outfielders, who are to carry a most important part of the defense, both teams are fairly even in strength and neither combination is as well balanced as it might be desired.

The power of both outfields is found in rightfield, where Ross Young and Babe Ruth have been playing regularly for the rival clubs. Taking his record through the past season, Ruth is a more brilliant player and of more value to his club, but remembering what he did in the past two series, Ruth might be turned down by many fans in favor of Young.

"Pep" Young is one of the few real stars on the Giant team. He is a hustler, one of the most aggressive players on the team, a good fielder, a dangerous hitter and a daring base runner. In the opinion of many experts he is one of the best players in the game.

Ruth, this season, has been doing everything that Young does, only he has been better in throwing. Young hasn't an unusually strong arm, whereas, next to Bob Meusel, Ruth perhaps has the best outfield whip in baseball.

Ruth is also a hustler, his hitting and slugging needs no comment. He is a good fielder and a very fast man on the bases, despite his weight. Like Young, Ruth also is the chief hustler of his team and a player who is heart and soul in every play.

Perhaps it is not fair to assume that Ruth will be a bust again this year in the series. The evidence, on the contrary, would indicate that the swat king will be almost as much of a terror to the Giants as he was to the American League clubs.

Considering every angle, it would appear that the Yanks, because of Ruth's hitting, throwing and fielding combined have the advantage in right field.

* * *

Centerfield is not so easy to compare as it is not known what player of the three that he has been alternating all season McGraw will decide to start.

Casey Stengel, because of his ability as a "money player," perhaps may be preferred by the Giant leader over young Jimmy O'Connell, who played all season like anything but a $75,000 ball player.

Where Stengel is a reliable fielder and a dangerous hitter, O'Connell is neither. The California youngster is woefully weak on ground balls, he is slow in starting in on a ball and unsteady in going back. His arm is very poor and he has been carrying a mental hazard to the bat with him all season. Stengel is not possessed of a great arm, but with either O'Connell or the "Casey" in centerfield the arm weakness is overcome by the wonderful arm of George Kelly, who runs back and takes the throw for a relay to the plate.

Bill Cunningham is a great young ball player and many fans have never been able to figure why McGraw does not use him regularly. He is only started against left-handed pitchers, but he has shown ability to hit right-handers when called upon and it seems strange that he hasn't been given more of a chance to star. Many critics look upon him as the best fielder on the club.

With Cunningham in center, the Giant centerfield would be preferred to the Yankees. Whitey Witt, the Yankee centerfielder, is the fastest man in the league getting down to first base and he is a good lead-off man. He is not too brainy on the bases, however. He fields fairly and is helped out of the handicap of a rather weak arm by Babe Ruth, who does most of the heavy heaving for him when he has to go back far for a drive.

* * *

The Meusel brothers, Irish and Bob, will be in charge of the left-field patrol and there is little to choose between them. Bob has a much better arm than his Giant brother and he can hit with him at times, but Irish is a more consistent batter in a pinch. Bob is faster when he wants to be and both of them are erratic fielders. In the games at the Yankee stadium where there are great open spaces in left field, Bob will be a better fielder, at least in getting back to the ball, although he is never sure of catching it when he gets there.

Irish is a better "money" player, and for the reason he has done more when it meant most, he has a slight edge on his younger brother.

In reserve strength the Giants are better fortified as they have Stengel, Cunningham and Shinners to fall back upon, while the Yanks have Elmer Smith, only a fair fielder and a spasmodic hitter, and two rookies, Haines and Hendricks, to step into an emergency.

If Babe Ruth hits as he has been hitting all season, he will be worth the whole Giant outfield, but if he does not improve upon his 1921 and 1922 form, the Giant outfield will be much more effective.

TENNIS FINALS ON HIGH SCHOOL COURTS SATURDAY

Finals in the Community Service tennis tournament will be played Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock on the high school courts. A large crowd is expected to see the playoffs in the men's and boy's tourneys.

Howard Wimmer and Bob Stanford will battle for supremacy in the boys' contests. Both are good players, and ranked high in the contest for the Press cup last season.

Semi-finals between Riley and Fuller have not been played in the men's contest, but will be held today or tomorrow. The winner of this match meets Baker in the finals.

ANNUAL BRAWL AT SOUTHERN BRANCH EVENT TOMORROW

Sophs and Frosh Will Battle for Lower Class Supremacy

One of the most novel athletic contests in college annals will be staged at the University of California, Southern Branch, tomorrow afternoon when the freshmen and sophomores of that institution stage the annual battle for lower class supremacy commonly known as "the brawl."

Three district events constitute the "brawl." First of these is the "tie up." Twenty men from each of the classes participate. They are lined up at opposite ends of the athletic field, and are equipped with ropes. When the signal is given the two groups rush down upon each other, and attempt to capture their opponents and tie them up with the rope. When the event is finished the class that has tied the largest number of men of the other class is judged the winner.

The tug of war is the second event. It is the same as any other tug of war except that there is a fire hose playing a steady stream of water in the center of the rope, and the losing side is dragged thru the stream.

The joust is the third event. The smaller men climb on the backs of larger men, and, equipped with broomsticks, try to unmount the riders on the opposing class. The broom sticks have rags saturated with paint on the end of them. Red is the soph color and green the frosh.

The class winning two out of three events is judged the winner. In past years the sophs have nearly always been victorious. Juniors and seniors will watch the battle from the sidelines.

OXY SECURES CASABA PLAYER FROM REDLANDS

Louie Meillette, former star Redlands basketball player, is now enrolled at Occidental, and will hereafter throw the ball through the hoop for the Tigers. Playing forward for the Bulldogs last year, Meillette generally accounted for more than half of his team's points in every game. Due to the conference transfer rule, which prohibits a man playing until he has had a year of residence at an institution, Meillette will not be eligible for games this winter. He is also a capable baseball player, his position being third base.

SPORT-O-GRAMS

By FRANCIS WILKERSON READ

HOW THEY LOOK

One week from Saturday the Southern California Football Conference commences play. Caltech will travel to Whittier to take on the Poet eleven, while Redlands is slated to play the Occidental crew at Patterson Field.

Southern Branch and Pomona will remain idle. Sufficient progress has been made in the practice work that a brief review of the various teams cannot help but give some indication of their relative strength and weaknesses. The following is not a prediction as to how the teams will fare during the season, but is merely the way they appear to stack up one week before the Conference starts. It is not dope, it is merely a review of the teams as they look at the present time.

OCCIDENTAL

The Oxy Tigers present just as strong a front now as they did when they started practice. With Spangler, Argue, and most of last year's team back, the Orange and Blue is certain to be a strong contender for the honors. The Oxy men were at first picked as winners, but developments in the other camps have shown that the Tigers have several stiff enemies to conquer before they can hope to cop the Conference rag. Not that they are weak, but the others are stronger than was originally anticipated. It is safe to say that Occidental will be one of the chief contenders in the race this season. This Saturday they play the San Diego Teachers' College in a practice tilt.

CALTECH

The California Institute of Technology has one mighty strong team this year. By scoring on the U. S. C. Trojans and holding them to an 18 to 7 score the Engineers showed that they are made of Championship material, and are potential pennant winners. Captain Hollis Moyse of Glendale, one of the best tackles in this part of the state, Groat, Goldsmith, Beck, and many other stars of last year are performing in great style. The Engineers are expected to uncork some real stuff when they hook up with Whittier for the opening game.

WHITTIER

Probably the biggest surprise of the season is Whittier. When practice opened it was freely predicted that the Poets had little or nothing in the way of football players. However, developments have shown that this supposition was entirely erroneous. When Whittier defeated the U. S. S. Arizona eleven by 58 to 0 score last Saturday, the fans began to sit up and take notice. Buckmater, Suggett, Johns and many other luminaries of last year look like their money again this season. It is possible that Whittier College may come out of the slump it has suffered of late and regain its old football prestige. When the Quakers meet the Engineers in the opener there will be a real fight.

SOUTHERN BRANCH

It is hard to say what the Cubs are expected to do. They have been practicing under cover, and have participated in no real games as yet. It is known, however, that they have a flock of vets back, and that coached by three former California stars, Cline, Berkey and Tooney, they are using the famous Andy Smith system of football. They have two weeks longer to practice than the other teams, as their season does not open until October 27. On that date they will tackle Whittier at Moore Field.

POMONA

Perhaps there have been no more widely varied reports about any team than the Pomona Sagehens. At the beginning of the season it was predicted that they were weak as water, and that all of the vets of last year's championship team were gone. Later reports were to the effect that the Sagehens, in spite of the loss of many men, look good, and that new luminaries are being developed. Pomona does not appear anywhere near as strong as the other teams, and in spite of late dope to the contrary, seems weak. Saturday's game with U. S. C. will show what the Sagehens are. Their first Conference game is with Caltech at Pasadena on October 20.

REDLANDS

That the University of Redlands will be the "weak sister" of the Conference this season is a generally recognized fact. The Bulldogs have little or nothing in the way of material, and are under the command of a new coach. Redland swill open with Oxy a week from Saturday at Patterson Field.

GLENDALE HIGH TO TACKLE FRANKLIN

Black and Red to Play Kiteflyers on Local Field Tomorrow

Glendale High school will take on the Franklin High gridders in the fourth practice game of the season tomorrow on the local field. Three times have the Red and Black warriors emerged victorious from practice battles this season. Van Nuys, Fillmore and Oxnard went down to defeat before the locals.

Franklin is reported to have a strong team this season, and Glendale will have some job to defeat the Kiteflyers, who, prior to their entrance into the City League were real rivals with Glendale in the Central League.

Coach Hayhurst has not announced his lineup, but it is probable that the team will open about as it did against Oxnard Saturday. The locals are coming along in great order, and should be in excellent condition by the time they meet South Pasadena in the first league game October 20.

That Glendale is expected to show the real stuff is evidenced by the talk of critics in every town in the circuit, and also in Los Angeles. The following is an example:

"Taking a slant around over the Central League at the present time, the dope points strongly towards Glendale as the big noise this year. With last year's backfield intact and most of the line again on the job, it seems unlikely that any other team in the league can stop them."

SERAPHS RISE AN SUBDUE THE MORMONS

Seals Again Nose Out Sa ramento and Increase Hold on Pennant

Los Angeles took Salt Lake do the line again yesterday. This ti the tune was 7 to 4. If the Ang had gone at it at this rate seve weeks earlier they might have ished in the first division.

Jones was on the mound for Angeles. The Mormons got hits off him, but only managed touch him for runs in two inning scoting once in the fourth an three times in the sixth. The A geles opened their offensive wit three runs in the second frame, fo lowed by two more in the thir and another pair in the seventh. Duckachley relieved McCabe in the third inning when it was clear that the latter could not stop the Seraphs. Singleton and Coombe also took their turns heaving for the Bees, but all were ineffective.

The score:

| | 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Salt Lake | 0 | 0 | 0 | 1 | 0 | 3 | 0 | 0 | 0 | — |

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 4.—Sa Francisco increased its hold c first place to an even dozen game yesterday by nosing out Sac mento, 5 to 4, by means of a nin inning rally. Hughes had been effective up to the ninth, holding t Seals to one hit in the five innin preceding the closing frame. But in the final round, with the bases full, he was replaced by Shea, whose first pitched ball was knocked for a double that spelled victory.

A Better Oil
Even if it does cost less

It isn't what you pay but what you get in lubrication that counts. Thousands of laboratory and road tests have proved that Zerolene oils and greases reduce friction and wear to a greater extent than any other motor lubricants we have seen and tested or been able to produce.

Zerolene oils form on an average 30% less carbon than other motor oils. They form less carbon than any other motor oils known to us.

And because Zerolene gives better lubrication continuously, the Zerolene-lubricated automobile averages 5% more mileage from the gasoline consumed.

Insist on Zerolene even if it does cost less.

NEW CHURCH OF BAPTISTS TO BE DEDICATED OCT. 14

The new Baptist church in the Atwater tract will be dedicated at 2:30 o'clock on the afternoon of Sunday, October 14, according to an announcement made by Rev. E. E. Ford, pastor of the First Baptist church of Glendale at the annual meeting of that church Wednesday night.

The members of the local Baptist church have form onths been working faithfully for the establishment of a church in that section, and it is principally through their efforts that the decision to establish this new church was reached. Rev. Ford will preach the dedicatory sermon.

Mrs. Wallace Reid IN "HUMAN WRECKAGE"

In smashing sequences of stupendous drama, this gigantic motion picture plunges home a mighty story of human life. In a voice of silence it thunders forth a passionate outcry that makes the emotions tremble. In towering transcripts of tremendous thrills it burns its way into the consciousness, leaving a trail of piercing memories that will linger as long as you live.

It's real! It lives!

AT THE THEATRES

"Eternal Three" at T. D. & L. Theater Features Three

If three is a lucky number, then Marshall Neilan's "The Eternal Three," which has its last showings today at the T. D. and L. theater, is certain of meeting with approval.

There are three words in the title of "The Eternal Three," which was started filming on the third day of January and finished on the third day of April, involving 63 days of actual camera work. Heading the cast are three players who are playing with Neilan for the third time—Hobart Bosworth, Claire Windsor and Raymond Griffith. There are three Irishmen in the cast—Tom Gallery, George Cooper and Helen Lynch. For Alec Francis, it was the third successive time he had portrayed a doctor, and from that characterization he went with King Vidor in "Three Wise Fools." Three of the fair members of the cast have birthdays in April—Claire Windsor, Helen Lynch and Maryon Aye—and Bessie Love worked in three pictures at the same time during the last few weeks of the filming of "The Eeternal Three."

In the vaudeville program is a great one-act skit, "Second Sight," put on by Willard Mack and that glorious old veteran of the spoken drama, Melbourne MacDowell, who made a nation-wide reputation 30 to 40 years ago as co-star with Fannie Davenport.

Billie Dove, Star in "Youth to Youth" Is Only Nineteen

Billie Dove, the 19-year-old movie actress, who heads a distinguished cast in "Youth to Youth," her first Metro picture at the Glendale theater, doesn't see what all the shouting's about. She, herself, takes her new honors very modestly and very quietly, but the public just won't let her alone. Besieged by letters, requests for photographs, interviews and opinions on every subject under the sun, Miss Dove is learning some of the penalties as well as the pleasures of stardom.

"I simply cannot understand," says Miss Dove, "why everyone thinks it so surprising that I have attained success at the age of 19 instead of, say, 38. When, a few years ago, I decided that I would leave the stage and become a screen actress, I determined that nothing should interfere with my ambition to become a star. I subordinated my whole life to this one aim and never once did I have any doubt that success would eventually come to me.

"Youth to Youth" was adapted from Hulbert Footner's story by Edith Kennedy. Emile Chautard directed it. Photography is by Arthur Martinelli.

THRILLING PLAY ON NARCOTIC EVIL AT THE GATEWAY

The United States Bureau of Health, headed by Hugh S. Cummings, Surgeon General, has placed the stamp of approval on Mrs. Wallace Reid's anti-narcotic film, "Human Wreckage," a screen play embodying a lesson against the use of drugs, which is showing at the Gateway Theater today and tomorrow with a fidelity to the facts of the traffic seldom seen.

"I have learned with pleasure of your determination to aid in the suppression of the drug evil by particpating in an educational campaign through the medium of the screen," Surgeon General Cummings has written Mrs. Reid. "Every possible agency should be made use of to stamp out an evil so destructive to the health and morals of our people. I feel sure that your efforts will be in the right direction toward attaining this end. If the service which I represent can be of assistance to you, please call upon me."

Headed by Dr. Von Kleinsmid, president of the University of Southern California, the Los Angeles Anti-Narcotic League also is sponsoring Mrs. Reid's picture. Enlisted with the Los Angeles League are chiefs of police of thirty-five metropolitan cities, government agencies and nationally known welfare workers from all sections of the country.
